FALL FAIR SHOWS BIG GROWTH

Entries Number Close to 2000--Outstanding Success From Every Viewpoint--Poultry Show a Feature Ideal Weather, Splendid Race Matinee, Large Attendance--List of Prize Winners

Ideal weather, good attractions, splendid exhibits and a big attendance combined with the officials and citizens last Friday and Saturday to make the second annual fall fair and poultry show of the Grand Forks Agricultural and Poultry Associations an outstanding success from every viewpoint.

The advance of the fair proper over last year was phenomenal in every section, the progress being evidenced by the entries being of a superior quality and approaching the two thousand mark, nearly doubling that of last year, while the receipts were sufficient to clear the pay sheet and leave a balance. The attractions at the race track, Saturday, provided one of the best afternoon's entertainment ever given in the city.

In a short address, W. E. Scott, deputy minister of agriculture, officially opened the fair at the rink at 2 p.m. on Friday, in which he took occasion to congratulate the fair directors and the metropolis of this favored valley on the splendid exposition of the farm and garden which was represented in the building and referred to the great and growing value of fairs in promoting the welfare of districts and the province as a whole. The deputy minister was introduced by H. E. Kerman, president of the agricultural association, who referred to the progress and possibilities of Grand Forks exhibitions.

The main fair building presented a radiant demonstration of the products of the district's ranches and homes as well, the exhibits of fruit, vegetables, flowers and grain only being exceeded by the brilliance of ladies' work—fancy work, sewing, painting, baking and preserves.

The array of fruit and vegetables was such as would do credit to a provincial fair, the district exhibit which had been awarded the silver trophy at Nelson having a prominent place. Apples were a strong feature. The entry list was double that of last year, the fruit excellent and the taste in display as well as the packing and grading elicited much favorable comment. Pears, plums, prunes, peaches and grapes were excellent in both quality and variety and illustrate the diversified possibilities of the valley in fruit growing.

The roots and vegetable exhibits were four times as many as shown a year ago, among which potatoes and pumpkins were features. In one exhibit shown by C. C. Heaven, eleven potatoes weighed 27 pounds. Melons, cabbage, squash, corn, onions, etc., were also of first order.

The display of flowers and plants, while not large, was particularly attractive.

Grateful to the eye was the section devoted to ladies' fancy work, all of which was of a high order, and the judges had a difficult task in deciding the winner from among the wealth of beautiful pieces in the various entries. The art section was also particularly good, while the home cooking, preserving and pickling was all of a most appetizing kind.

Some splendid collections of amateur photography were also shown. R. C. McCutcheon had a good display of mission furniture and Campbell & McDonald had an exhibit of horse shoes, hand turned. A. S. McKim had a luxurious booth of groceries, and the Mann Drug Co. had an attractive display of drug sundries.

In the curling rink the poultry and pet stock entries numbered 618, and the association have reason to congratulate themselves on the excellent quality of the stock shown. There was close competition in most of the classes and the awards only reached by judging on points. While a large number of entries were received from outside points, it is particularly significant that the cream of the prizes was won by Grand Forks birds. While the entries were more than double that of last year, the quality has also greatly improved.

In horses and cattle the entries were not large, but were of a good quality.

THE ATTRACTIONS

The bridge across the river had much to do with the large attendance at the race track matinee, who were given a program without a dull moment, a good number of horses taking part in the events which were won as follows:

Slow bicycle race—1st, Roy McLeod; 2nd, Archie Symes. Fast bicycle race—1st, W. McSwain; 2nd, Bert Reid. Judges—A. B. Tweedle and W. E. Hadden; starter, H. A. Sheads.

The waxworks entertainments given in the fair building each evening provided good enjoyment for the many visitors. Localisms were introduced in connection with the various personages, each of whom took their part very creditably. Mrs. Cummins came over from Greenwood to assist as Madama Jarley, and was an adept with witticisms.

The Grand Forks band which provided music throughout both days is being showered with compliments for the splendid music rendered. With thirteen members they left nothing to be desired.

J. J. WARREN IN THE CITY

Grand Forks as Divisional Point is Promising

J. J. Warren, president of the Kettle Valley Railway company, was a visitor to the city Wednesday evening, having spent the day at Franklin camp.

Mr. Warren had nothing definite to say in connection with extension of the railway up the North Fork, though the company will be prepared to rush the construction of the track to Franklin camp as soon as sufficient ore is put in sight to warrant building. The British Columbia Copper company is now developing claims with very encouraging results.

The president was not prepared to discuss the question of terminals in this city, but it may be stated that the prospects for Grand Forks being made a divisional point for both the C. P. R. and the Kettle Valley railway are particularly bright at present.

Greenwood Fair

Greenwood's first annual fair took place this week and passed off very successfully. The ambitious city made a very creditable showing for its initial show, as a three day fair is an event for a much larger city. The fair was officially opened by M. Burrell, M. P., on Tuesday in the handsome building erected last year as a rink and fair building and the exhibits were many and varied. Dancing was among the attractions for which Phoenix orchestra supplied the music.

In the poultry there were 264 entries. Among the prizes which come to Grand Forks for poultry are the following: H. A. Sheads, black minorcas, 3 firsts. A. D. Morrison, R. I. Reds, 2 firsts and barred rocks, 2 firsts and 1 second. C. G. Wheeler, R. I. Reds, 1 first and 2 seconds; white wyandottes, 3 firsts and 3 seconds; Houdans, 4 firsts and 1 second; pigeons, 1 first; hares, 2 firsts; Chinese pheasants, 2 firsts and 1 second. J. A. McCallum, silver pencilled, 5 firsts and 2 seconds. Mrs. E. Davis, R. I. Red, 1 first. T. Bowen, Houdan, 1 first; R. I. Red, 3 firsts. Mike Tompkins, Langshans, 2 firsts and 2 seconds. D. C. Manly, leghorn, 1 first and 3 seconds.

Road Making Starts

Road Commissioner Spraggett started roadmaking this week on the road south of the city, which it is expected will form a link of the provincial trunk highway from the Pacific to the prairies mapped out by Good Roads Taylor, minister of Public Works.

The New Sawyer & Massey rock crusher and new three-ton roller, purchased by the government, are being used for the first time on roadwork, both having been tested in city work. The crusher will be stationed at a rock pile and operated by steam, will crush rock as quickly as two men can feed it. The machine turns out the crushed rock in four sizes, each of which is elevated into a miniature bin. These dump into wagons and the rock is conveyed to the roadway.

In making the road the coarse rock forms the foundation and on it a layer of each of the other grades of rock is in turn put on. With the new roller to pack the rock solid, a macadamized roadway is the result.

A gang of fifteen men will be employed in making the road.

Granby Stock

Replying to a query on Granby stock, the Boston Commercial says: "We consider Granby a very cheap stock at its present price. The company's capitalization is small and its holdings of mining property, water power privileges and its smelter are very valuable. The other stocks you mention, however, are also very cheap at their present prices."

Louis Colquhoun, one of the famous Bill Miner hold-up trios, died recently in the provincial penitentiary. He at one time worked at Phoenix.

INCREASE IN ORE RESERVES

Granby's Report at Annual Meeting in New York

New York, Oct. 4.—The annual stockholders' meeting of the Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting company today elected as directors T. E. Earle, A. C. Flumerfelt and William A. Payne to succeed William A. Nash, Edward R. Nicholas and William Hamlin. The other old directors were re-elected.

The disappointments of the year were attributed directly to fuel troubles, fire, a reduced copper yield per ton, and the low state of the metal market. During the year 200,000 to 300,000 tons more were added to ore reserves than extracted.

During the year the mines yielded 950,943 tons, as compared with 1,155,542 tons during the preceding year. To date the mines have produced 7,299,911 tons. Ore in sight on July 1 stood at 6,429,193 tons.

Stockholders were told that the acquisition of the Hidden Creek Copper mine appears to have been a wise move, developments having confirmed all the information submitted by the company's engineers before its option expired. It is hoped to have the new property commence production on a large scale before the end of 1912.

A balance still remains unpaid, but not due, on the property, but the company has $400,000 in excess in its treasury of the sum needed to complete purchase.

President Luther estimated the cost of putting the property on a 2000 ton per day producing basis to be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, including the cost of erecting a smelter.

Directors today voted to make a $50,000 bond on the Copper Queen mine, near Chewelah.

Blue Ribbon Winner The second annual fall show of the Grand Forks Agricultural Association was itself the Blue Ribbon prize winner.

An American View With the overflow of boncomb which has appeared in American newspapers in connection with the result of the Dominion elections, it is refreshing to find a paper which appreciates the opinion of Canadian electors.

The rejection of the Reciprocity measure by an overwhelming vote on the part of the Dominion government was a surprise to many people who thought that Canada would fall head over heels in an effort to ratify the measure.

The merits of the treaty or its advantages from a commercial standpoint, were waived aside by the Canucks who saw possible disintegration of their government and annexation by the United States.

From our standpoint, no doubt, they have sufficient justification for their actions. It is said that the loose law in this country and the abuses that have arisen were powerful influences.

With such a record it is not difficult for the alarmist to talk of the dangers of an annexation and work up a sentiment against this country. Commercially it is our gain that the treaty was defeated and the American farmers of this country have cause for rejoicing, but it is humiliating to know that our neighbor on the north does not view us with that large measure of esteem which we supposed. The gift to see ourselves as others see us, reckoned as a particular boon by Robert Burns, might apply equally as well to nations. We shall do well to make a little introspection and endeavor to do more real good by patient performance instead of so much loud and vulgar clamor as to our importance in the world. Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.

Dancing will take place in the opera house and cards and refreshments will be served in the Davis hall. Invitations are now being issued, the assembly being given as a benefit for the tuberculosis sanitarium at Tranquille.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Oxley, who have been residents of Phoenix for a number of years, are moving to Northern Alberta. Mrs. Oxley is at present visiting her aunt, Mr. Orchard, of this city.

Election returns have just been received from the three most northerly points in Yale Cariboo. At Moose Lake only one vote was polled, and at Tete Jaune Cache there were two, all for Mr. Burrell. Eighteen were polled at Nechaee, eleven being for Mr. Burrell.

Copper Handbook, Vol. X

The tenth annual edition of the Copper Handbook is just received. The new issue of this work, which is considered a standard authority on the subject of copper and copper mines for the entire globe, has 1,902 octavo pages, and in addition to the miscellaneous chapters, lists and describes 8,130 copper mines and copper mining companies in all parts of the world, this being the largest number of titles ever listed by any work on mining.

The descriptions range from two or three lines, in the case of dead companies, wherein reference is made to detailed descriptions in past volumes at the period of their activity up to twenty-one pages in the case of the Anaconda mine, which yields one-eighth of all the copper made in the world.

The miscellaneous chapters of the book, twenty-four in number, treat the subject of copper from all possible viewpoints, there being chapters on the history, chemistry, mineralogy, metallurgy, brands and grades, alloys and substitutes for copper, with a copious glossary, and a chapter of statistics ending the book that contains 40 odd tables, thoroughly covering copper production, consumption, movements, prices, dividends, etc. The Copper Handbook is sold on the unique plan adopted nine years ago, the publisher sending the book by mail, prepaid, to any address ordered, without advance payment of any sort, and subject to return after a week's inspection. The price is $5 in a strong green buckram binding with silk headband and gilt top, or $7.50 in full library morocco. Anyone interested in copper, as a producer, consumer or investor in shares, would do well to write the author and publisher, Horace J. Stevens, Houghton, Michigan, ordering a copy of the new copper Handbook sent prepaid, subject to approval.

Fragrance of St. Sophia. Visitors to the mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople notice immediately they enter a beautiful fragrance pervading the entire building. The solution lies in the fact that when it was built, 1,600 years ago, the stones and bricks were laid in mortar mixed with a solution of musk. Those who laid these stones have long since died, but the influence and fragrance of the work remains.

Information Given. A very pretty girl was standing in the hallway of her home several evenings ago, and the young man who had been calling on her was taking an affectionate farewell.

Just as he kissed her for the last time the lady's father stormed down the hall and demanded to know what the young man "was trying to do."

The young man said he was "trying to look unconcerned" and then bolted.

Worth Her Weight in Butter. Curious customs still prevail with regard to marriage. In some parts of Canada the custom is to offer six hoes and a pack of India rubber for a wife. Some of the Kafirs sacrifice even. The Tartars of Turkestan give the weight of the prospective wife in butter. In Kanchukia the price varies from one to ten redskins. Some natives require a certain amount of labor. Among the Mohammedans it is said the current rate for a wife is a box of matches, which prompted a Paris contemporary to speculate whether one of the French government boxes would be accepted.

A LITTLE DIP INTO SPACE.

Distances From Earth to Stars That Make Even Imagination Gasp.

One of the greatest sources of the fascination of the starry heavens is the measurelessness of their abysses. The ocean of space is so pellucid that we seem to see its sparkled bottom, but trigonometry is powerless to reach it. Here and there only some projecting rock throws a star-strewn point within touch of the astronomer's sounding line.

Such a spot, situated at a depth of 1,000 astronomical units, has caught and created the spectroscopic plummet from the abysses by the astronomer Charles Nordstrom, who has invented a new method of celestial soundings. The glittering star crag that he has hit is started by a trapezoid under the name of Delta Librae, and the length of the mathematical line which now hangs between it and the earth makes the imagination itself gasp.

It is two quadrillions of miles! It is only step by step that one can comprehend a number like that. Two quadrillions of twenty dollar gold pieces would make 100,000 necklaces, each long enough to embrace the earth and the moon in a double loop. An express train traveling 100 miles per hour and never stopping would require more than 2,200,000,000 years to go two quadrillions of miles. A projectile flying 3,000 feet per second, or in round numbers 60,000 miles per day, would require about 10,000,000 years to reach the Delta Librae.

Light, the swiftest and truest thing that can possibly exist, if we may trust recent calculations based on the phenomenon of radio-activity, and that can make the round of the whole earth more than seven times in a second—takes 350 years to come to us from that star.

Yet Delta Librae lies in shallow water. It is a gem cast upon a shoal, and all around it the mighty deeps of the ether become to profoundity unthinkable. At ten times, a hundred times, perhaps a thousand times, its depth glitter the star sands of the Milky way. To our telescopes they appear to lie on the very bottom, defined into heaps and curves by mysterious currents, but it cannot be the real bottom even there. Beyond yawn abysses so black with excess of depth that the stars themselves, great suns that they are, fade to invisibility.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

When He Did Better.

A celebrated bishop once sat through a long and atrocious sermon on a hot summer morning. The preacher was a youth just out of college—a very conceited youth. He bowed through his sermon at the top of his lungs. His gestures were violent enough to break his arms. At every climax he fixed the bishop with his eyes to see if a suitable impression had been made.

And at the end of the service this young scamp swaggered up to the bishop and said:

"I fancy I did rather well to-day, sir. Don't you think so?"

"Yes," returned the bishop; "but you did better last year."

"Last year?" said the young man. "Why, I didn't preach at all last year."

"That's the reason," said the bishop, with a pleasant smile.

Retention of Heat.

In human beings the skin is the principal means of heat loss, being responsible for the loss of 87.5 per cent. of the total heat lost. This is not so in some animals—the dog, for instance, whose hairy coat does not permit its skin to perspire. The dog loses heat largely by its expired air and by the radiation and evaporation of water from its tongue; thus it pants and puts out its tongue on a hot day. Obviously our clothes prevent the loss of heat, and the more effectively as they are bad conductors of heat. For this reason flannel, wool and furs are so much "warmer" than linen or cotton, materials from the vegetable kingdom and therefore not the natural clothing of animals.

A Misunderstanding.

"Why don't you go about with Miss Smedley any more?"

"Why—she told me that she did not care for society since her father had failed!"

"He is failing, that's a fact. Old age, I suppose!"

"Great Scott! It that what she means? I must certainly call and express my sympathy!"

Like a Man.

"Well, old Jenkins certainly bore his misfortune like a man," said his friend.

"Ah! Congratulations, and all that sort of thing, what?" said the man who did not know Jenkins.

"Well, not so much that," said his friend. "As a matter of fact, he made rather a fuss about it. What I meant was that he blamed it all on his wife."

His Bluff Quickly Called.

"I want you to understand," he said, "that I'm the master in this house."

"All right," she replied. "Go out and tell the cook that we're going to have company all next week."

Then he put on his hat and went away, making sarcastic remarks about people who were afraid to say their souls were their own.

The Brighter Side.

"Goodness, pa, look!" said the mother of the amateur aviator. "His engine's broken down. He's 2,000 feet high. Oh, this is terrible!"

"Don't take so hard, mother. Nobody can deny that he's going some."

Speaking of Color.

She—Girls seem to have the color sense better developed than boys, according to experiments recently conducted in the schools of Cologne, Germany.

He—But when it comes to hair boys stick to one color longer.

To the Zam-Buk Co.
Dear Sirs,—I have found Zam-Buk most reliable for healing cuts and abrasions; while for the relief of skin irritation it is invaluable.
(Signed) RODNEY M. LLOYD, Admiral.

Zam-Buk Cures Bad Burns.

Stoker Kingsnorth, of I.M.S., "Colonus," says:—"I slipped and fell with my arm on an exhaust steam pipe, which fairly fried the skin. At once the ship's surgeon dressed my arm, but the burn took the wrong way, owing to a lot of dirt from the pipe getting up blood-poison. A large sea appeared, and from underneath the festering flesh, matter oozed out. I was in fearful pain and didn't know how to get ease.
"For weeks I remained under treatment, but the ordinary ointments proved no good. Indeed, I got worse. I therefore obtained a supply of Zam-Buk and almost as soon as this was applied I got ease. From the very first application, healing commenced; and a few boxes of Zam-Buk healed my wound completely."

Zam-Buk cures eczema, ulcers, abscesses, hemorrhoids, bad leg, varicose ulcers, piles, cold sores, chapped hands, balding scalp, etc. All at 75c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c. stamp for trial box.

Friends Call Her "Cuckoo."
Lady Shaftesbury's position in the household of the Queen is unchanged. She was for some years Lady of the Bedchamber to the Princess of Wales, and now that that august lady is Queen she serves her in the same capacity. Lady Shaftesbury is the daughter of the Duke of Westminster and a sister of the Duke of Grosvenor and Lady Beauchamp. She is a pretty woman, and is also very clever and cultured. Her names are Constance Sibell, but she is known to her friends as "Cuckoo." Her only son, Lord Ashley, is ten years of age, and she has two pretty little girls, one about eight and the other only three years old. Lady Shaftesbury is an accomplished actress, and often has theatricals at her home. She owns some very lovely jewels, among which are noticeable a set of sapphires and diamonds, which was a wedding present from her grandfather, the late Duke of Westminster. Another beautiful ornament of which Lady Shaftesbury is very fond is a brooch which was given to her by Sir Thomas Lipton on the occasion when she named his yacht Shamrock III. The Shamrock's flag is formed of emeralds, the flag of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club is composed of sapphires and enamel, and a shamrock and figure III, in diamonds, make the brooch, which is a beautiful and unique piece of jewelry.

An Opportunist.
Some facility in trimming sails to the passing breeze was very useful to the newspapers of a hundred years ago. This is how one of the Paris papers announced the arrival and advance of Napoleon after his escape from Elba: "The Corsican brigand has landed at Cannes" the next day. "The fast courier line has been received at Grenoble." Then the tone changed: "General Bonaparte has entered Lyons," a few days after, "Napoleon is at Fontainebleau," and finally, "His majesty the emperor alighted this evening at his palace of the Tuileries." Mr. C. F. Warwick recalls the incident in "Napoleon and the End of the French Revolution."

The Taste For Horse.
Is our dislike of horse flesh simply prejudice? If we may judge from the experience of the inmates of the leagions, which Miss Hooker recounts in "Behind the Scenes in Peking," the Anglo-Saxon can easily acquire the taste. "It is queer," she says, "to see how many people, who acknowledge that they like it, having eaten it now for two weeks. Of course, a great deal depends upon the animal, but they agree that mule and pony are better than horse. Some people, even, who have among their stores plenty of canned or tinned beef prefer the fresh horse meat."

A Gladstone Recipe.
At a country house one morning the guests were discussing at breakfast the right way of rucking a spoor bag when the sponge has been used and is consequently waterlogged. Mr. Gladstone, who had apparently been solely absorbed by his morning's correspondence, suddenly closed the discussion by informing the party that they were all wrong. "The only proper method is to wrap it up in your bath towel and stamp it up. Then put it in your sponge bag. You will find it perfectly dry."

TITLES IN DENMARK.
There are Nine Classes of Rank, with Innumerable Subdivisions. The Danish classification of rank is a very elaborate one, built up of offices, orders, honours and titles, written J. Brochner in "Danish Life in Town and Country." There are nine classes, which are divided into as many as a dozen subsections, each of which may again comprise a score or two of different titles and offices, yet there was a complaint in one of the Danish papers that it was anything but complete. Holders of titles have to pay an annual tax ranging from $44.50 in the first class to a miserly 1.33 in the ninth. There are about a score of different titles, several of which are again divided into "real" and "feudal," the "real" being several shades better than the "feudal."

These titles are always used in conversation, as, for example, "Will not the chamberlain have a cigar?" or "Mr. Chamberlain, will you not have a cigar?" And it requires a fairly clear head and a good memory to give everybody his due in a large party, especially as some of them are, gorgeously long, as, for instance, Geheimrath von Grand.

There are ladies, who generally have "frøinde" (the English "ess") added to their husbands' title or office. A colonel's wife, for instance, is called oberstinde, and the wife of the chamberlain to the king kammerherinde, and so forth. But the subtleties of the additional titular address in writing even exceed the verbal form. That persons of the first rank are "excellencies" is only natural, but gentlemen of the second class have on documents addressed to them a "high well born" prefixed to their title and name, and those of the third class a "high and well born." I much regret that I cannot explain why the "and" of this "and" should somewhat detract from the value of the same words.

Gentlemen of the ninth class are addressed as "well honorable and well bred," which is, I think, almost more than they could expect for their $4.33.
